

From the collection of Sharon and Cornelius Winesberry comes this Black Heritage Stamp of A. Phillip Randolph , a noted statesman and politician.

The gallery of Sharon and Cornelius Winesberry features this keepsake poster "Looking Back MLK" signed by local dignitaries.

Sharon and Cornelius Winesberry cherish this print from the front lines of the 1965 March on Selma which marked the overturning of voter disenfranchisement in Selma, Alabama by Dr. Martin Luther King and supporters from all over the nation.

The newest keepsakes in the Winesberry collection include Christmas cards from 2009– 2014 from President Obama. Today we're featuring some of their favorites.

We shall overcome ... some day

We shall overcome ... some day.

"Reflections of an Unending Story"

CELEBRATING CIVIL RIGHTS AND BLACK ACHIEVEMENT

Week 3: February 21, 2015

During this Black History Month we pause to give recognition to all the soldiers of the "Unending Story" who have passed from our midst. Their voices still echo among us, reminding us of the work we've yet to do to break any binding chains.
