

DK= Devin Kennedy SB= Steven Bruner

DK "This is Devin Kennedy and I'm gonna be doing an interview with"

SB " Steve Bruner"

DK "and right off the bat I wanna ask you how do you identify ethnically"

SB " Caucasian"

DK "would you say being Caucasian plays a role in your life"

SB "exactly it plays a role in how people treat you and how you treat people"

DK " um do you have a tradition from your culture your background being Caucasian that you practice on a daily basis or every once in a while"

SB "no"

DK " OK is there a tradition you wish you could practice"

SB "no"

Dk "what was your childhood like"

SB " my childhood was uh very turmoil everywhere I went on my was in my parents were in the civil service we had riots assassinations my mother was mentally ill and so our our life was up and down all the time"

DK " Have you lived in Washington most of your life or where did you live before"

SB " lived in Cuba for two years lived in Panama for four years living in Selma AL for a couple of years the rest of the time in Washington"

DK "would would you say you love like Washington"

SB " I like Washington because it's not too hot not too cold you can ski and snorkel and go to the bottom of the ocean all in one day so there's plenty to do our states beautiful state"

Dk " uh would you say growing up you had a hero someone you'd look up to for inspiration for anything"

Sb "lots of sports figures I enjoyed falling and looking up to politically looked up to John Kennedy cause of his age being president United States Martin Luther King looked up to him"

DK "Is there any event in your lifetime growing up that you would say impacted your life"

SB " yeah the Cuban missile crisis I was 10 years old had to worry each day whether we're gonna go to war or have a bombing in Cuba so it was very very very scary"

DK " um how do you feel about the people participating in the Pledge of Allegiance pledge "

SB “ choice every American has to make sometimes I think that we patronize and we do it too much so it loses meaning but every America has that choice”

Dk “i think that's all the questions I really have for you”
