

Another Shortage—Lemmings!

THESE SNOWY OWLS, held by Tacoma Mayor Gordon Johnston, left, and Point Defiance Zoo Director Norman Winnick, are ready for shipment to the Kansas City Zoo. Because of a lemming shortage in the Arctic, the owls are driven to the Pacific Northwest in search of alternate food. The owls have a hard time coping with cities, freeways and larger predators and probably will never return to the north. Details, Page A-13.—P-I Photo by Howard Staples.
